DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

1. The following is a quotation of the second paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall conclude with one or more claims particularly pointing out and distinctly claiming the subject matter which the applicant regards as his invention.

2. Claims 1, 3, 4 and 10 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention. Claim 1 recites the limitation "the airbag covering". There is insufficient antecedent basis for this limitation in the claim. Claim 3 and 4 recites the limitation "the flap mechanism". There is insufficient antecedent basis for this limitation in the claim. Claim 10 recites the limitation "the rotary joint". There is insufficient antecedent basis for this limitation in the claim. Appropriate correction is required.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

3. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

4. Claims 1-4, 7, 8 and 9 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Mayer, et al. (6,651,998).

Mayer discloses an airbag construction for protecting vehicle occupants in a vehicle having an airbag, the airbag thrusting in a targeted manner through the collapsing interior paneling 5, wherein the airbag actuates a flap 4 which is connected by a connecting element 10 to the interior paneling 5 which, by means of the opening via the tensile force which the connecting element exerts on the point(s) of weakness, produces a defined tear which destroys the interior paneling 5, in order to provide the passage space for the airbag, and pulls the region of the interior paneling 5 which contains the airbag covering 3 partially away from the vehicle interior or completely behind the interior paneling onto the side of the flap 4 which faces away from the airbag channel, so that the airbag can be unfolded unhindered and no parts of the airbag covering 3 can pass into the firing region of the airbag. A structural space is in each case arranged laterally and receives the blasted away airbag covering 3. An internal paneling 5 which comprises a covering layer 3, which serves as a boundary to the passenger compartment and comprising a support layer 4 having an foam layer situated between the covering layer and support, and a connection between the support layer and triggering mechanism (not shown), wherein the airbag triggers the flap mechanism which tears open the airbag covering at the weakness. The flap mechanism comprises a flap 3 and a connecting element 10. The connecting element is designed as a stiff lever. The flap 3 retains the airbag in its folded up position. The connecting element 10 is also rotated about a hinge point 11 fixed on a module.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

5. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

6. Claims 5 and 6 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Mayer, et al. (6,651,998).

Mayer discloses the claimed invention except for the connecting element made from elastic material and/or containing a fabric structure. It would have been obvious to one having ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to have the connecting element made from elastic material and/or containing a fabric structure, since it has been held to be within the general skill of a worker in the art to select a known material on the basis of its suitability for the intended use as a matter of obvious design choice.

Allowable Subject Matter

7. Claim 10 would be allowable if rewritten to overcome the rejection(s) under 35 U.S.C. 112, 2nd paragraph, set forth in this Office action and to include all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.

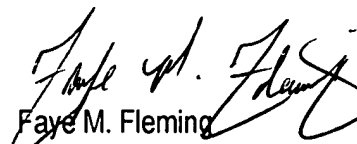

Conclusion

8. The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure.
